PREFACE

As of 2018 I have collected/researched files of more than 80,000 members of our family. It took the past 45+ years to compile findings. In the process, I recorded names, dates, events and related notes. I previously published "Person Notes" for nearly 5,000 of our family members which told an interesting story of our heritage. The volumes you have before you are different in that they show family connections. Some notes included here have been updated from my previous books. In an effort to provide valuable findings to our family, I decided to publish this series of pages showing 33 generations. I selected 33 generations to keep this to 2 volumes and make it affordable. If I created pages for ALL in my database we would have ~4400 pages and be too many volumes to manage.

The charts begin with the oldest ancestor I have researched. In these volumes I start with one of several family lineage theories with Eystein (King of Sweden) Adilsson, born about 594 A.D. in Uppsala, Sweden. These will be of help to present and forthcoming researchers and interested persons. An index is provided to assist the reader.

With progressing technology, we now have DNA analysis to use as another tool to substantiate our traditional research. Marty Prather, a Prater DNA Project Administrator, has included an Introduction to the analysis technique and some Prater results to date. Comments to Marty are welcomed!

You may choose to include some of my data when writing your own report of family history. If you do, please give credit to the information provider. None of my copyrighted information may be reproduced in any form for profit.

My files cover almost ALL known branches of our United States of America family. Family lines were found in Canada, England, Mexico and a few in Australia and New Zealand. As you read, note the diversity of spellings in our family name, "Praers", "Pretor", "Prater", "Prator", "Praytor", and "Prathers". This diversity is reflected in documentation found in census, marriage, pension, and British records as well as in tax lists, land deeds, etc. Name spelling variations may be attributed to a lack of education of recording clerks, or that standardization of spelling was not valued at that time in history. Standardization of spelling surnames and given names has been a relatively recent invention when we consider the great span of historical time. Spelling in a given geographical region was, and is, obviously arbitrary.

The Prater, Prather, Praytor, etc. families are thought, by English genealogists, to be one of the family groups known as the "Ui Briain". Several different families with very differing names are said to have descended from that group. "Ui Briain" descended from "Brion", a 5th century King of Connacht, an ancient kingdom in Ireland. Other kings such as Rytherick, a king of central Wales in the 8th century; Brockwell, Prince of Powys; Gerald of Windsor; Kingstons, all claim a direct bloodline of Brion. Another theory is that the family descended from the Roman magistrate that came into Brittan in the 6th century. Another theory is that the family descended from the nobility of Denmark in the 9th century. Still another theory, which is probably the most likely, has the Prater family descending from Baron Hurbert d' Rye, through his son, who came into England with William the Conqueror in 1066. Baron Hurbert d' Rye lived in Rye Castle, Preaux, France and was born about 990. His son, Williamus became known as d' Preaux in France and later Williamus de Praers in England. Many of his descendants were married into the same allied families as the earlier generations of those using the "Prater" name in England. Only continued research can uncover more details about these theories.

During the course of this family history discovery, I have had the pleasure of being invited to many family reunions, including in England, Australia, and throughout the U.S.A. Being a reunion guest speaker was an honor. I have met many kind and wonderful family members along the way. Sadly, some had absolutely NO interest in their heritage.

Hopefully, their descendants will feel otherwise, transcending an interest in heritage to their own children that follow.

I would like to express my deep gratitude to all that helped me gather information and research. Personally, I found doing that immensely satisfying. The importance of preserving family information for future generations cannot be overemphasized. The materials represent OUR family. People are not perfect, and we are not to judge them, but we can try to learn from the mistakes or actions of our ancestors. We should feel grateful and proud of the story and heritage they have left us.

It is my hope that you will enjoy reading the material prepared for you. A work of this size is bound to include mistakes. Please know that I will appreciate your bringing any errors you find to my attention, so that corrections can be made. Please contact me at the following if there are questions.
